My peace be with you. Thus I have prepared your ways here into this room, to this meeting and stand here in your midst as your heavenly Father, to bless you, to give you words of love, to unite you in spirit with one another and to unite you with Me. For there is only one love and there is only one life and that is Me.

And when I come to my children, then I give words of life, then I give you words of love, to show you my care, to show you what kind of loving God I am, whose joy it is to gather his children around him. And that is why I have called you to come here, have prepared your paths, just as I have also prepared your paths throughout this earthly life. Yes, I have prepared a path for each and every one of you; and when I prepare paths, they also lead to the goal. So every life here in this room is guided by My love in order to reach this goal: My heart - to enter into the city of My love.

That is why I speak to you again and again, in the outer world and in your hearts, and give you impulses of love so that you may recognise My presence within you and so that you may recognise that I guide and lead and protect you in this world of darkness, falsehood and lies. Therefore, My children, it is necessary that you open yourselves to My presence so that this guidance, this protection and this being-with-you of Mine may be accomplished. For it is your task to open the door to My Heart so that I may enter into your life to give you guidance and protection.

So be blessed for now. May My peace permeate your souls, may My love touch your hearts in the depths, there where I am in you all the time. In the depths of your hearts is My City. And all the words I now speak through this instrument of My love are also placed in your hearts; I also speak them in your hearts. For within you and without you I am the same. And so the words I speak to you today and the love I give you today are deeply rooted in your soul, in your hearts.

And when you enter into this space that I have prepared for you within you, you will feel this sense of security in Me, this intimate joy of meeting Me. Yes, heaven is within you, My children. And whatever approaches you from the outside is always only a signpost into your heart, where we meet, which I, as God, look forward to. Just as an earthly father is also pleased when he meets his child who has once gone into the distance and returns to the homeland, to the father's house. What great joy there is for father and mother. And so it is with Me.

You went out into the distance, into the world. You forgot Me – partly, or repressed Me. And then you realised: 'Oh, this world, this is not my world. I cannot be happy here in the long run. There is suffering and death and hardship here.

And in this state, in this condition, I called you, I called you by name. And the wish arose in you to again return to your father. And this wish became a longing and this longing has filled your souls. And you have set out to satisfy this longing – in love towards me.

And so it is something wonderful, my children, this meeting here. You, My children, and I, your Father. Thus heaven has opened for you. And thus heaven has also opened for those who are in heaven and who are now allowed to look into this togetherness and community. These are the ones who accompany you, who are with you in spirit at all times. Who pray for you and fear for you as you walk through this valley of death, so that you will not perish.

But I have firmly taken you into My heart. There is no more getting lost, My children. Even if you were to turn away from Me again, I will go after you. I will never leave you again, but will call you again and again and stretch out My arm and open My heart and say, 'My child, come back to Me. I am there, I am ready. I have given My life for you, My child.

Yes, My children, you do have a thorny path to walk... a narrow, thorny path; many of you carry wounds with you, wounds that you feel every day, some in your soul, some in your body. And today you have opened your hearts here and offered Me what weighs you down and oppresses you, what you cannot cope with in this world. I know all your thoughts and I also know the root of your thoughts, which you do not know. And so I have placed everything in My heart, and there it is so important, My children, that you do not present your worries to Me with your mind, but with your heart, because the mind keeps its worry, it does not give it up, because it needs it to feel alive, to feel a semblance of life.

But when you present your note to Me from your heart and when you give Me your cross, which weighs down your heart, from your heart... full of trust, then I unite your cross with the cross that I have already borne for you. All your little crosses I carried then, all the little crosses of all My children I carried, and they became one big cross. Yes, all the crosses of all beings in all creation have united into one cross on which I was crucified.

What does this mean for you? It means that you can hand over all your needs to Me and that you are absolved of your sins by surrendering your hearts to Me; and it means that you do not have to carry your cross beyond this earthly life, that you do not remain bound to this cross of matter, but after the crucifixion comes the resurrection, which I have also prepared for you. I have prepared the entire course of your existence and will guide it to a good end, to an end of eternal bliss and joy and security in Me.

Now, in this earthly life, where you are firmly anchored in matter – for that alone is a cross that you bear – it is not always easy to accept this in the sense of saying, 'My Father, Your will be done'. ' Often you come into situations, into living conditions, where everything appears dark, where there is no longer any prospect, where the heart becomes heavy and darkness fills the soul. Then you stumble and then the enemy comes and whispers doubts into your mind. And these, My children, are the moments that decide your life. Especially in this darkness and gloom, in this night of your soul, to speak these words: 'My Father, I trust You, I believe in Your love, Your will be done with me. ' With that, you set the course for your further life in this world and the next.

Just as I also had to struggle and fight in the Garden of Gethsemane for this decision in the darkest hour of My earthly existence. I had to fight and struggle for many hours and I too faced the enemy of life and weighed My fear of the unspeakable pain that awaited Me, and yet I struggled through to the words, 'My Father, Your will be done and not My will.

And actually, with that it was already accomplished, because I maintained this decision and this decision contained a great joy for me in the knowledge that with it I was preparing the way for all the beings of this creation, building the bridge into the heart of the Heavenly Father, who is the love in me. That was My great joy as man and as God in this moment and this joy accompanied Me throughout the entire ordeal - right up to the last words I spoke on the cross: 'It is finished.'

My children, I tell you this so that you too, in all your life's situations, in all your dark hours, may remain faithful to Me, trusting that I have everything under control and that I stand behind all demonic and satanic powers, seeing everything and knowing everything, and that I always have the last word. Therefore remain loyal to Me with love. Loyalty, My children, gives you a feeling of security; when you are loyal to Me and live within My will, your soul will be filled with a sense of security and divine love and give you a peace that this world does not know.

When you walk the straight paths that I have prepared for you, you will walk free of fear and worry, because you will then know: 'My life belongs to Jesus Christ, my life is in His hand, I am safe in Him all the time, no matter what happens in this world. And then it does not matter, My children, when I call you away, that should not be your concern.

Yes, I have built up a network for Myself, many small and large communities of faith, spread across this earth, invisible to the material world, and yet all these communities, these small and large prayer groups, and everywhere there are people who truly believe, are connected to My love, even if they are alone. This network is visible in the world of the beyond and it forms a power on this earth, a divine strength.

And so a spiritual battle is taking place, for there is also a network of the devil, he too has spun his web, a sticky, dark web in which not only worldly people but also My children can become entangled... and yet I have the power to lead all My children out of this dark network and into My bright work of love.

And this is now happening on this earth, this gathering, this uniting of all those who are willing to serve Me, who are willing to walk the paths I have prepared. Thus a great family has come into being, even if not all have the same faith; for there are also different views within the faith, and yet I am the foundation and the foundation is love. That alone is what it is about and not differences of opinion, which will be resolved in due course. So now the new Jerusalem descends upon this earth, the new Jerusalem is my word of truth. In this word live those who have recognised and accepted me as truth and love. My children, the new Jerusalem is the living word of truth and of God's love.

Now, when I speak these words here, this room is filled with light. Angels have gathered around you, full of joy that they may share in this community. A wonderful event in the spiritual world and the inhabitants of heaven are now also looking in here, full of joy and gratitude and love for Me. Their hearts glow with love for Me and these glowing hearts radiate here and fill this room with this love from Me and I stand in the centre: a King of kings – and for you, My children, a Father of mercy. Yes, that is what I am to you, so I say it again: I guard every single life as much as I guard Myself; I have prepared every destiny and all the paths that still lie ahead for you. I carry every worry and every need you carry within yourselves for you when you consecrate your lives to Me. I am there for everything, I am ready for everything, it is up to you.

I love you, My children; I embrace you; I bless you; My Heart is wide open; My yearning is great. There are not many people on this earth who reciprocate My yearning, but here in this room our longings meet, My children, and it is the great joy of a God to be here with you now, to embrace you with love and give you these words: You are mine. Amen.

Yes, my children, I now go around to place my divine hands on your heads and on your hearts so that you may be filled with the divine ray of grace and mercy. And so I have now also expanded this room, removed the walls of this house, so that a large circle has been created, with many who are already in the world beyond: deceased souls who have already undergone a certain process in order to be allowed to receive My word, and whom I have now had brought here, and the spirits from the luminous worlds, who have now also been brought in here.

And this great community, which also includes the angels of heaven, has now become a great island of love, which not only forms this light here in this place, but this light radiates out, spreading over this land, and I now spread my mantle of love over this whole earth, and the light spreads further and further out into this galaxy, penetrating suns and planets, penetrating the man of creation, who moves through this consciousness of My love, which appears to you humans as empty space.

So now, here, in this moment of eternity, is the centre of the heart of this creation - and actually it is always like this: where I am is the centre of love, because I am the source of love, I am the source of all life. And you are at this source and drink from My word, which is the water of life that I give you always – not only here and now outwardly in receiving My Word, but this source is also in your hearts, from which you can drink always, from which I give you the bread of life and the wine of truth, which are My Word, and the blood that I give you is the blood of forgiveness.

All this is contained in you, all this I am in you. And so I reflect myself as God standing here in your hearts and thereby awaken myself again in your hearts a little more, so that the process of spiritualisation of your souls may progress, which is so important and so necessary right now in this time. In this way, you progress in time and at the same time penetrate into the depths of the presence of My love. Thus, the progress in time and the manifestation of My eternal presence form a unity in the love for Me. Thus, your temporal path is always blessed and accompanied by the presence of divine love, and thus the foundation on which you walk consists of divine love and mercy.

My children, actually everything is shrouded in the mantle of My mercy, and yet it is so: the free will of man decides his fate. I am not the judge and decision-maker; rather, man judges himself, man decides which way he goes, which nourishment he takes in for soul and spirit. All this is your decision, and I also say this to those who are not here in the body now, but who have already laid down their bodies: I am your food, Jesus Christ, God from eternity, there is no one besides Me, only I alone am the way, the truth and the life, only in Me and through Me can you attain salvation. Therefore call upon My name, awaken My name, which is written in the depths of your hearts, through your love for Me, then I will arise in you and you will find the way to your spiritual home.

So I have spoken myself out of myself and laid myself in you, so that you also feed on this food when you do not have access, as it often happens in everyday life; then I extend myself to you out of your hearts and offer you the bread of life, which in turn means: I give you the impulse that I am there, that I am with you – a small impulse, a thought that you can return and already you are again in my presence.

But basically, my children, we will no longer be able to lose each other, because as I already said: you are mine and I am yours, your life and your love in eternity. Amen.
