Yes, My children, My vitality within you deifies your souls. Something magnificent happens to the soul when I rise within you.

What I give to My children, the little flock that I have gathered around Me on this earth, and whom I call together again and again to train, to guide and to lead through this darkness of time, so that you may be the light in it, cannot be measured by human standards. Yes, I have sent you out as lights; as lights of My love you are to work on this earth.

You are not to imitate those who live their lives self-righteously and self-indulgently, doing only what is good for themselves, but you are to serve Me in love. You are not to repay like with like. You should not look at the mistakes of your neighbours and walk this earth with punitive thoughts, but in merciful love you should touch the darkness and respond with love to thoughts of hatred and envy. That is your task.

And, My children, I have placed everything in you so that you may enter into this deification. It is all contained within you. You only have to walk this path with Me... also in patience, for I cannot open everything within you at once, you would not be able to bear it. The soul is opened room by room and piece by piece, more and more is led into the consciousness of My presence and My love. And so this path through time becomes more and more a path into eternity for you. The space of time will open up more and more for you and reveal your immortality to you.

Everything you do together with Me is done for eternity. You should not do as the people of the world do, who only do works for the time, for the abyss of time devours everything. They go naked and with nothing into the world beyond. Everything they do and have done was service to matter and time, but time devours everything and everything sinks into the abyss of transience.

But you, My children, together with Me, are already doing the works of eternity, lasting works that will never pass away. Every work of love, every step together with Me is done for eternity. Every thought you give Me is a thought that will never pass away in eternity. And so you gather your thoughts about Me like pearls, and every thought, every pearl you give Me, I string together into a necklace that you will one day be allowed to wear, a spiritual pearl necklace, My children, which will adorn you for eternity. Therefore, think of Me very often and draw Me into your consciousness through your love for Me.

Yes, I am always with you, but you must recognise it, you must believe it firmly, even if you do not feel Me. Yes, this thought often arises in you: 'My God is so far away from me, I feel lonely... my God, why are You not with me, why have You forsaken me? And then I say: My child, I am always with you. For with this special sentence which I spoke on the cross: 'My God, why have You forsaken Me?', I took upon Myself all the abandonment of all My children for eternity.

In My agonising physical pain, I thus experienced all the pain of souls through their separation from God, yes, I placed Myself in their lostness of soul and thus bore and carried it away for you. In that eternal moment, I effected that none of My children will ever be abandoned by Me, for I have atoned for all your abandonment vicariously and placed it in My redeeming mercy. I declared this on the Cross for eternity.

And so you see that My presence with you is eternal, uninterrupted on My part, My children, but it is always up to you to open this door into My presence. Take this step, hear My knocking and My calling. I call you all by name ... in silence, in seclusion.

When your consciousness comes to rest in love for Me and all thoughts fall asleep, this door opens, then I come out to you, spread My arms and a sea of love springs from My breast, in which I envelop you ... this is My Fatherly joy, to shower My children with love.

Yes, My children, these are words of love that I speak to you, which are meant to touch your hearts, and yet I also speak serious words to you with the question: My child, what actually distinguishes you from a worldly person? What do you do differently? What paths do you take that the world also takes? Ask yourself: Where is the difference between your actions and thoughts and those of the world? I will gladly shed light on these questions for you, My child, and show you the difference that exists and does not exist.

And I tell you: There is still much to do; the path to deification cannot be measured by human standards. And yet it is a special time; I have now sent many of My children of light, sons and daughters, to this Earth – you are part of this. And in this special time, there is a special training and also a special completion to the extent that I am bringing about, supplementing and completing much that was previously reserved for individual children of God.

You know them and often read about the saints or mystics, the enlightened ones and prophets, those who gave My Word throughout the ages; they were always special people. And now it is so that there are many special people in the sense that I have sent many into this time with an apostolic and prophetic mission.

And you all have such talents within you, even more than those who have gone before you through time, although you have not yet become aware of all that is contained within you. And yet I have already promised you much that is possible and that I want to accomplish with you. On the one hand, time is pressing. But I also add: I am holding back many events for your sake and for the sake of all those who are now undergoing My training throughout the whole Earth. And on the other hand, I also say: Be patient, be patient with yourselves in certain things when something does not immediately come to fruition in your efforts and struggles and battles. Know that the perfection of the soul comes about solely through the grace of God.

You have already experienced My patience with you, My great patience. And yet you also feel My urging and pulling and pressing within you. And so it is a back and forth, and yet it is a struggle forward. This is also always the case when I call you together and speak to you and say to you: Yes, My children, you have made progress. Much has happened in all of you in one year. You have gained insights that you did not have before. You have been led into depths of your soul that you did not know before, whether through hardship or through My love that I radiate into you.

And I also say: Not only should these meetings take place here in this room, but meet also among yourselves in smaller circles, for there too I will speak to you. Have the courage to move forward in prayer, to let it flow, for a flowing prayer is often already a word from the Father. And then I will take over and My Word will be a child of your prayer.

You, My children, My sons, My daughters, I have now laid My hands on all of you in this circle, I have blessed you all. I have reached deep into your hearts and touched them, I have touched you with My Spirit. And so I stand here in the midst of this room as your heavenly Father, and yet at the same time I am God, the Almighty, who rules the universe. And so it is now, My children, that the centre of this creation, the life-giving centre of this room, emanates from Me because I am standing here. And the great creative man, consisting of countless galaxies which form his atoms, this infinite, vast creative space is now being enlivened from this place where I stand.

It is beyond human comprehension. The worldly man will laugh at this and mock those who have this belief in Me, that I am God, the Almighty. But only where I am, where I stand and walk and love, is there life. Life flows from Me alone and fills the universe, creation and everything in it. Everything comes from My heart. And for you, My children, I have opened a very special chamber of My heart, a door into My heart.

While everything flows from My Heart and enlivens creation, I lead you into My Heart, into divine life, into the only life that exists. For apart from Me there is only darkness and death. What people consider to be life on this earth and elsewhere, My children, is death. And what people consider to be death, the laying down of the body, is the entrance into spiritual life, if one has lived and loved rightly. And so you see, everything is upside down in this world. That is why I say again and again: Look at the world with My eyes, see everything with the light of My love, together with Me.

My children, it is My joy to take you into My arms. To walk with you on this earth and show you this and that, to say: My child, look here, look at this. I will show you how you must and should look at it correctly, so that your soul remains in the divine vibration, in divine peace. That is My joy. And there are not many, only a small flock on this earth who are ready to sacrifice their lives to Me, to consecrate themselves to Me and to serve Me. I have called many, I have named many, My call has resounded across this earth. Who has heard it? You have heard it. And this call has kindled your longing, and your longing has become love. Wonderful. The only way there is.

Just as I once made a covenant with My people Israel, so now, at this time, I make a covenant with the little flocks that I have called together. And so I now make and renew the covenant with you. And this covenant shall be a bond of love among you and a bond between your hearts and My Heart. A bond that the world cannot break; and a covenant that shall remain beyond this earthly life for all eternity, this covenant and this bond between the Heavenly Father and His children. I say this to you, My children, for with you I now make this covenant and form this bond, valid for all eternity. Therefore, live in this trust and in this love for Me, so that this covenant may find its fulfilment in your hearts and in My Heart.
