My children, love is superior to all knowledge, to all wisdom, for wisdom comes from love. And if you want to seek wisdom first and accumulate knowledge within yourselves without having the right measure of love, then you will wander in a labyrinth of thoughts and become entangled again and again in questions for which there cannot and should not be any answers for you at this time. Therefore, I say: Let love be enough for you, love for Me and love for one another, and from this will come the knowledge you need to walk your path in the way I have intended for you.

And so, when you take My Word into your hearts, My Word touches the Word that I have placed in your hearts, this Spirit that I have placed in you. For My Word and My Spirit and I are one and the same, My children, they are one, and that is Me, and that is God. And the word that I speak to you and that you receive with your hearts awakens the word in your hearts that I also am. And through this, a resurrection of the word takes place in your hearts, and you must then carry this resurrected word into life, you must make it alive through the act of love, you must give yourselves life in it.

You can do this in the small environment in which I have placed you. I have chosen all the people you meet for you. When a child gives itself to Me, its entire environment is prepared by Me, and no person you meet or have to deal with is a coincidence, but everything serves to help you progress and strengthen the love within you. Even if someone does not wish you well, if someone speaks ill of you, remain patient and connect with My love. Then you will recognise the power of love that rises up within you from your heart, and this power, this divine power, can meet every human being in patience and love.

Everything is within you; you have brought with you everything you need at this time. I have equipped you with the weapons of love, I have given you a place to live and a path, and together with you I have prepared and designed a plan for this earthly life. And you knew very well beforehand that you would have to go through deep valleys, that you would encounter situations in life that would challenge you completely, that would also hurt your soul; you discussed some of this with Me, and some of it you were able to see in advance in a certain way.

And you also knew: All these injuries that you have suffered in this life so far, all the situations that have taken you out of the awareness that you are children of My love, everything that has led you onto paths that are not in this plan, for all these times and all these situations, I have given you the necessary tools and also placed the words in your hearts that you can then speak in these phases of life, in the challenges on this earth. That is why it is so important, My children, and I say it again and again: it is a life of the heart for you on this earth, the heart is the weapon I have given you, the heart is the vessel into which you are to place My Word and into which you are also to place your mind, so that the whole person may be permeated by this love and the mind may then also become an instrument of your heart.

A war is currently taking place in the spiritual world; the battle between good and evil is in full swing. The demonic world has assembled its army, and I have sent out My angels. And you feel this battle in the spiritual world, My children; and sometimes you do not know why you are in a state of unrest. You have access to the spiritual world because of your faith, and this requires a certain transparency, whereby you perceive in your subconscious that a battle is taking place within you and around you in the other world that surrounds you.

And this spiritual battle is now also manifesting itself, as you can see, in the material world through small regional flames of war ... there is not yet a conflagration of worlds, and yet, My children, it is important for you: when this conflagration of worlds arises, that you then have complete protection with Me and this security in all situations that will soon and now set this earth ablaze in a great fire. And the spiritual fire, on the one hand, brings darkness into the light of truth and, on the other hand, it is to fill My children during this time. That the separation of spirits will then be accomplished, that those who now love lies will go into lies and completely new paths will be opened for them there, and the others, and that is you, My children, will walk the path of truth and love. I have prepared the way for you into the light of love, and so I urge you again and again and say: Now is the time of decision for you too. Everything that has happened in your entire existence up to now can be found at this point in your earthly existence. Here and now your circle of life is closing, not in a material way but in a spiritual way, and you will finally return home to your Father's house.

You know everything that will now happen in this world: for the people of the world, it will be a catastrophe and despair will be great. But you know the plan behind everything that is now coming upon this earth. You know that all hardship is an instrument whereby this world can be transformed into a kingdom of peace and love. And I am already preparing you now, so that you may already be in this kingdom of peace and love before it manifests itself on this earth. Yes, you are the builders of this kingdom, and together with you I am building this kingdom. And that is why this kingdom must first be built within you; I must first be born within you: Jesus Christ.

I have enclosed Myself within you, but I have already opened the door. All you have to do, My children, is to find yourselves in this love that I am in your hearts, to make yourselves alive in this love through what is happening now in this time, what is happening now in your lives – that is what is needed now.

And so prepare yourselves inwardly more and more for this time. Use every day to come a little closer to Me, use every moment you have, every free minute to send a quick prayer to Me, a brief thought that you give to Me, then I am already with you, it is very quick and very easy. And when you then feel this moment of My presence, then your soul is lifted up again, then you are free again for this moment. And so one moment and one instant follow another, and so we proceed together in this time that I am opening for you, so that you may already here on this earth become aware that you are not temporal beings, but that you are spirit beings, immortal, only clothed in a body for this short time on this earth.

Enter into My presence anew every day. I say presence, for only in this am I a God who does not look back, but who takes you by the hand and walks with you through this one day. Take only this one day on which I can be with you. And then another one comes, a new day. And so every day should be a new day, together with Me.

In this way, the burden of the past will gradually fade away. You will leave it further and further behind you. And then you will feel more and more anticipation for the next day: "Yes, dear Father, tomorrow I may wake up with You again and walk through the day together with You. That is a joy, I look forward to it, for You are with me and I may be with You all day long. Just this one day."
