

28.09.2024

This room here has opened up into the light and is flooded with the light from My heart, just as I now also permeate and flood your hearts with My love, so that you may recognise in the word that I am a God of love, that I am a God who loves His children above all else and who also longs to meet His children, here and now and throughout all time.

You are now in an open space, because in the spiritual world your souls are not in this space, but the walls have disappeared and all around you, My children, are countless who are now witnessing this revelation of My love.

And I have not only called in those who are of the light, but also those who have not yet found their way into the light; to them I send a ray from My heart, an impulse of love, and write with the ray of light from My heart into the darkness, so that they too have the opportunity to experience salvation in this place, because wherever I am, whatever space I enter, salvation takes place in all realms of time and eternity.

And you, My children, who are now here in the body, in you I have found this longing that drives you forward, this longing for love and security with your Heavenly Father. And it is precisely this that draws me to you, it is precisely this that has caused me to call you together here, so that you can see deeper into my heart, so that you may recognise even more deeply what kind of God I am, what I mean to you as a heavenly father.

For this knowledge of My heart is necessary, this insight into the depths of God's love is what opens your yearning and reveals the core of yearning, which is love; for yearning is the soul of love and I now open this yearning so that this love may show itself in you, to prove itself to you, to lead you into that which still seems far from you – but it is that which you desire so much: to be ever closer to your heavenly Father, to recognise and fulfil My will more and more.

And this desire to serve Me in love I have placed in you, My children, from the very beginning. This desire in you is the aliveness of your soul, and this drives you forward, draws you to Me, and so you have now arrived at a point in your earthly existence that I once promised you: to make contact with you, to reveal Myself in the word. And I have kept My Word; you see and hear it, for everything I say to My children is truth and truthfulness and every one of My Words comes true – but time is Mine.

I often speak to My children and tell them this and that, and the children expect it to happen tomorrow or soon, and yet the Word must mature in My child before it can be realised in the child, so that it can be born through the child into the world and thus form the world of My Word in which the child moves together with Me.

My children, everything always revolves around love. You were born out of love, you were created out of love, you walk the path of love and you will one day return home to love. But this path you are walking, this path that seemingly separated you from love, this separation of paths only takes place on the surface of time, because in the innermost part of your hearts, where I have placed myself, you are never truly separated from love.

You mainly move in the external, go out into the world, which is also necessary to gain experience, to bear the responsibility for your life on this earth - that is why you are here and that is why I have also caused you to do this, but this earthly path of experience has the task of leading you into the depths of your soul, where you can find and recognise Me, so that I can ultimately lead you to the gate of eternity – and I have opened this gate of eternity for you.

I extend My hand to you through this gate to draw you even closer to Me, to tighten and bind more closely this bond that exists between our hearts. Yes, the blessing that I now extend to each and every one of you brings you a little closer to My heart, permeates your soul a little more with My love.

Even if you do not consciously experience this, in time you will recognise that this moment, in which you now find yourselves, has brought your consciousness, your soul, a great deal closer to Me. For when I call My children together, I distribute the gifts of the Spirit, then I am ready to give them to those who carry within them this longing to receive these gifts.

But often, My children, the dark world tries to bring down precisely those who are now on the threshold of My heart, who are on the verge of entering this realm of love, where darkness no longer has any hold, and tries to prevent this by all means.

Therefore, My children, do not be surprised if you are often exposed to certain attacks, if thoughts are inspired in you that are not yours, so that you become confused and ashamed of these thoughts and then lose contact with Me. But, My children, it is not so. Because in your love for Me you are not capable of thinking these thoughts. And so do not accept them, but remain free in your love for Me.

And I will remove everything that still weighs you down over time, so that you may then enter through this door, from which I reach out My two hands and draw you into the space of My heart, which I have prepared for you. Therefore, rejoice, My children.

My power is great and I know everything that happens on this earth. And where I can intervene by being granted access, I enter with divine power and glory to finally reveal the power of love from Me in you and through you in this time and then in eternity. Therefore, be of good cheer and full of joy.

And so I go around to bless you. My children, I lay My hands on you, I permeate you with My power of love and might and say to you: I love you very much. It is My need and My yearning to communicate My love to you daily, so that you may pay attention and recognise My guidance, how I protect you from certain dangers, how I open doors and close others.

It is always I who guide you so that you reach your goal. Your small goal: step by step the mastery of this earthly life, and finally and ultimately the great goal. The great goal, you know it, is My heart.

When you go out into the world, I am with you, I accompany you all the time, I meet you in people – if you want to see Me in them, you will recognise that it is I, to perfect you on this path across this earth. To do this, it is often necessary to use a strong tool to loosen and reveal certain parts of the soul; sometimes a fine polish is needed, and sometimes the soul must be gently caressed and filled with confidence and love. And so there are these different divine approaches, components of perfection, with which I work on you.

Never, My children, you know it, do I punish, but I redeem and perfect. And everything I have begun, I will complete. It is only a matter of time. Those of My children whom I call together, right here and now, are already very close to Me and often only a little is missing - be it on this side or the other side. You stand with your imperfection in My perfection and so you can look at the world with My eyes, you can look at your life with My eyes, you can live together with My heart here on this earth, heart to heart.

I have prepared this gift of love for all who are willing to follow Me in word and in deed. In this way you are My joy, and My joy is My blessing for you, so be of good cheer. Give Me this short journey on this earth, which I have prepared for you.... a breath of eternity, a point on an infinite line, so give Me this tiny moment of your existence, so that I may turn it into an eternal moment in Me, Amen.
